SOUTHAMPTON-The difficulties between the White Star line and the striking stokers of the liner Olympic, sister ship of the lost Titanic, became involved this evening when the company admitted it was considering abandonment of the voyage.

The seafarers' union demonded formally that the White Star line dismiss 18 stokers who refused to strike, when the union men walked out. The company replied that the voyage would be abandoned before the granting of such a demand.

The Olympic, the greatest vessel afloat, is lying helpless for want of stokers, off the Spit-head, to which point she was towed vesterday by tugs. Her 1400 passengers are aboard and 200 more are waiting for her at Cherbourg.

WESLEYAN BASEBALL NINE IS SHOWING UP STRONGLY THIS YEAR

Coach Noonan Has Given Much Attention to Batting Practise With Excellent Results

PERSONS CAPTAIN

MIDDLETOWN, Conn.-When the first call for candidates for the Wesleyan baseball, team was issued this spring the prospects for a good nine were father dubious, as only three old men were eligible, but under the tutelage of Coach F. J. Noonan an aggregation has been developed that has made a remarkable showing in the opening games. The first contest with Brown resulted in a defeat, although the Providence team was outbatted 7 hits to 2. Owing to lack of practise the Wesleyans showed up poorly in the field in this game and the loss of the contest was due largely to this fact. The game with Springfield College resulted in a victory by the score of 10 to 6, the local team knocking two pitchers, including Sexton, the former Harvard twirler, out of the Most of the visitors' runs were scored in the last two innings, when Stanley, the freshman twirler, was given a tryout.

Coach Noonan has been giving particular attention to batting practise this season, as this has been Wesleyan's weak point for several seasons, and the results have amply rewarded his work.

Carl S. Persons '13, of Maynard, Mass., is captaining the team this year, and is playing for the third season. Last year played in the outfield and behind the but, but is now holding down the latter position. His swift and accurate throwng is one o' the features of his playing. He is also a strong batter and a good

The problem of finding a pitcher was the greatest difficulty that faced Coach Noonan, but Captain Everett Bacon of the football team has filled the gap nicely, This is the first year that Bacon has played on the baseball team, as in former seasons he has been a member of the tennis and track teams. FOR TAFT Declares President His Real Friend

Says Roosevelt Used Pure Food Fund Illegally to Balk War on Adulteration

From Boston Herald, April 23, 1912.

Herald Bureau. Washington, April 22

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

"Yes, I said it. Why shouldn't I have said it? Would I not be an ingrate from my toes up to my head-from my head to my toes-if I did not say it."

Thus did Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, pure food champion, until recently chief chemist of the department of agriculture, reiterate today his hope that President Taft would be re-elected. He reiterated when shown a copy of a statement, which he had been represented as making in Cincinnati a few days ago. That statement ran as follows:

"President Taft is the one man who stood between me and destruction at Washington. When efforts were being made to assassinate me, Taft proved my only protector. He stood by me and I am grateful to him. I hope he will be re-elected."

Dr. Wiley was at his desk in a corner office of one of Washington's new skyscrapers as he took off his spectacles and declared anew his friendship for President Taft.

"I couple my statement," said he, "with the expectation that the President will clean those Augean stables in the Department of Agriculture. He said in his letter exonerating me that there were other conditions in the department which must be remedied. It is not too late yet for him to do that.'

"Will you tell about the origin of the Remsen Board?" was

"Why, I guess so," came the answer promptly. "I wore a muzzle becomingly for a long time. Perhaps the truth ought to be told about that board right now.

"It was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt as President of the United States, either on the recommendation to him of the secretary of agriculture or by his own recommendation to the secretary. The actual announcement was made by the secretary of agriculture. I was told that Mr. Roosevelt selected Dr. Remsen and that Dr. Remsen selected his associates.

"One morning I was asked by the Secretary of Agriculture to go with him and Solicitor McCabe and Mr. Dunlap to President Roosevelt's office at the White House. When we arrived there we met several gentlemen, one from Rochester, N. Y., who used benzoate of soda in his goods, a representative of a Detroit concern that used benzoate in its goods, and a New York member of Congress (since elected to another Federal office).

"After we had been seated President Roosevelt announced that the gentlemen I have referred to (from New York and Michigan) had protested against Dr. Wiley's findings on benzoate of soda and against other substances added to food products, notably sulphur dioxide and saccharine, and he gave a summary of the representations they had made to him. After he had made this summary he appealed to the gentlemen (from New York and Michigan) to know if he had stated their case fairly, to which they replied in the affirmative.

"He then turned to the secretary of agriculture and asked him if he (Secretary Wilson) thought the use of benzoate of soda in food products was harmful. The secretary promptly answered in the affirmative. He then asked me if I thought the use of benzoate of soda in food products was harmful. To this I replied that I did not 'think' so, that I KNEW so because I had carried on experiments for two years with young men and found in every instance that sooner or later injurious effects had been produced.

President Roosevelt then asked the same question of Mr. McCabe and Mr. Dunlap, to which they replied in the affirmative. Turning then to the protagonists of benzoate and striking the table with his fist President Roosevelt said:

"'Gentlemen, if this substance is injurious you shall not use it in your foods.'

"Thereupon the then Republican representative from a New York district introduced the saccharine question, and stated that his firm-meaning, I suppose, the firm of his brothers-had saved $4000 the previous year by using saccharine instead of sugar.

"I interiected the remark: 'Yes, Mr. President, and every person who ate the goods was deceived, thinking he was using sugar when, in fact, he was using a sweetish coal tar product.' "This remark of mine seemed to arouse President Roosevelt, who made a passionate defense of saccharine, saying that Dr. Rixey gave it to him every day." "What about appropriations for the support of the board and the authority of law for its appointment?" was asked. "The appointment was by the executive order of President Roosevelt," replied Dr. Wiley. "Every dollar paid to the Remsen board for all of its work, including several trips to influence people in the states to use benzoate of soda in their food, has been paid from appropriations made to the bureau of chemistry for the purpose of enforcing the food and drugs act. That was a lump sum appropriation, and every dollar disbursed for the Remsen board was not only illegally spent, but was used to prevent the enforcement of the law.

"The Remsen board was appointed in 1908," continued Dr. Wiley. "In a little less than a year, on Jan. 23, 1909 (well toward the end of President Roosevelt's administration), the Remsen board rendered its verdict favorable to the use of benzoate of soda in food products. The opinion was publicly promulgated some two or three months later. The Remsen board has been investigating sulphur dioxide all the years since then and has not made its report yet. "The money used for this Remsen board," asserted Dr. Wiley, "was turned right around against the law. I do not know of a more craven surrender to depraved interest in all the history of mankind." Taft League of Massachusetts. Young's Hotel. Boston.

NEWLY FORMED U. S. COMMERCE CHAMBER IS TO OPEN OFFICES

WASHINGTON-John H. Fahey of Boston and John J. Edson of Washington were named yesterday as a subcommittee of the executive committee of the newly formed Chamber of Commerce of the United States and are to open offices for the chamber in this city at once.

The directors had been in session only 1 few moments yesterday afternoon when a special delivery brought the first application for membership. It was from Frederick, Md., and this city will be the first member under the articles of association that-have been drawn up by the temporary organization this week, meeting at the call of Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

The executive committee as elected in cludes the following men: John H. Fahey, Boston; Horace H. Allen, San Francisco Frederick Bode, Chicago: John J. Edson Washington; A. J. Lognan, Pittsburgh; Elias Michael, St. Louis; Lewis M. Parker, Greenville, S. C.: John P. Truesdale, New York: E. P. Wells, Minneapolis; B. N. Baker, Baltimore.

Secretary Nagel has expressed himself as greatly pleased with the prompt achievement of the organization.

"The foundation has at last been laid for successful cooperation between commerce and industry and the government of the United States," said Mr. Nagel. "Even without legislation the departments of the government are now in po sition to communicate with the representatives of the commercial and industrial activities of this country, to gather information and to act in their recommendations and in their administration give advice. In my judgment the foundation has been laid for constructive development upon well considered lines."

News of Importance From the Latin-American Centers

ROM the Rio Grande to Cape Horn, the entire expanse of Latin-America is developing politically, socially, economically with ever-increasing impetus. Each day brings reports of new phases of activity and of new progress made. To understand Latin-American news it is necessary to follow up these developments Comparisons Indicate That and thus perceive the fact that the Latins of America have their full share—a large and a growing share—in the great issues of the world.

A striking illustration in point, the most important, perhaps is the consistent effort of Japanese enterprise to drive an entering wedge into Latin-America through colonization, and the equally consistent policy of Brazil to welcome such attempts.

Politically Latin-American development must be viewed as a whole if it is to be gauged and understood. Thus, on the west coast of South America hardly anything ever happens that does not directly GATUN, C. National Raisin Day, Three Years Old Now, Started by People of Golden State and Is Observed Yearly

PRIDE IN INDUSTRY

TESDAY, April 30, will be national raisin day, first observed three years ago and originating in a desire on the part of the people of California to educate the citizens of other states to appreciate the value of this fruit as an all-the-year-round article

The fact that raisin growing is dis tiactly a California industry and that each year more than 120,000,000 pounds of raisins are shipped from that state to the importance that the people there attach to the observance of a day specially devoted to the praise and consumption of this fruit.

To lovers of all good wholesome foods the raisin appeals as one of the purest. best and most nourishing. It is also a food with a history. We read of it in the Bible, where first of all it is spoken of as dried grapes; later it appears in the role of peacemaker.

Raisins have been in all ages an important article of commerce. They filled in the earlier periods the place of a nourishing food and also of a simple

"Good Company"

IF you never needed to call the butcher, the baker or the candlestick-maker, a telephone in your home or apartments would be worth while for its companionship.

It is a great antidote for loneliness. A woman cannot be lonely if she knows her friends are within call. The mere knowledge that she can telephone to them, if she wants to, is sufficient. The telephone itself is "good company."

When residence telephone service may be had as low as $1.75 to $2.00 per month in the Suburban Districts, why not decide at once and give us your order now, so that you may be listed in the next Boston Division Telephone Directory.

It included the straightening of a crooked brook course, the filling of the old brook bed, the excavating of large banks at one side of the brook and filing the other side; the building of viaducts to carry streets over the tracks, and the lowering of street grades to carry them beneath the tracks.

Beginning with the purchase of a large frontage on both Bay and Pine streets north of the old road bed, numerous cottages formerly occupying the site, were pulled down last summer. The company then proceeded to raise and level the ground by filling between the 100 yards away. To prevent the filling from sliding into he brook, a huge concrete wall was raised at the north side.

The filled land is to be used for the storage and freight yard. Nelsor county will vote on a $30,000 bond issue also.

There is every reason to believe that the elections in each of the counties and districts mentioned will be carried in favor of the bonds. This will mean the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 for good roads in the immediate future. This is without taking into account the large amount of money that is being spent on good roads from the regular county funds.

A noticeable tendency in road building is that of connecting the improved roads from county to county so as to old roadbed and Toney's brook, about make a continuous highway. Especial efforts along this line are being made along the route of the proposed transcontinental highway.

Navy Notes

The Atlantic reserve fleet will be organized May 1. The fleet will consist of the following vessels: The Tennessee (flag ship), the Indiana, the Iowa, the Maine, the Wisconsin, the Tacoma, the Birmingham and the Chester. Other vessels will be added from time to time. The fleet will be based at the navy yard,

The Chester was placed in first reserve at the navy yard, Philadelphia, April 22,

There were also reports of very favorable May 10 to holders of record April 30, northwest. Reports from the hard winter wheat states were favorable, although there were some scattered dam-

The bulls are talking NEW YORK—Cotton opening. April to the small movement and the benefit 11.35 bid, May 11.43@11.44, June 11.49 of large short interest. Only a small movement is predicted from the country until well after seeding time. Oats-The market was fairly active and firm, but, owing to the favorable weather conditions for seeding and the reports of good progress in oats sowings, there was a disposition to act conservatively on the bull side. Work has been advanced very rapidly the past week.

SUBMARINE SIGNAL COMPANY

The annual report of the Submarine Signal Company states that on Jan. 1, 1912, there were 138 signal stations installed or on order in different parts of the world, an increase of eight during the past year. The largest number of stations equipped or on order are in the United States, namely, 53, there being 27 in Great Britain, 16 in Germany, 14 Exchanges in Canada, 7 in France. 5 in Belgium, 6 in Netherlands, 2 each ip Sweden and Russia, and I each in Denmark, Portugal, Spain, Uruguay, Argentine and China.

DISCOUNT RATE UNCHANGED LONDON-The Bank of England's minimum rate of discount remains unchanged at 31/2 per cent.

89 % 115% NEW YORK-The Iron Age says: The market for pig iron and finished steel 103% products has broadened and strengthened. Events continue to count against the view that the advance movement which began to be well defined about one month ago is only a passing spurt. The position of sellers is undeniably stronger and the indications of a buyer's market are lessening. Fuller information as to the agricultural buying of steel bars, which was the feature of this report one week ago, indicates that these contracts amount to 300,000 tons, that 1.15c., Pittsburgh, was the basis for the most part, and that many deliveries extend to July 1, 1913. The leading harvester interest was a buyer of 36,000 tons for delivery this year and on this 1.33c., Chicago, equivalent to 1.15c., Pittsburgh, may have been shaded slightly.

The advances of bars to 1.20c, and of plates and structural shapes to 1.25c., Pittsburgh, announced by a number of steel companies in the past week, followed considerable bookings in all three lines at the old prices. That such a move would be so generally participated in would not have been prophesied in the face of conditions at the opening of the month. Since then the business on the books of the steel companies has inreased in spite of heavy shipments.

Railroad buying is a more pronounced feature of the situation, with all the ef forts to minimize its proportions. The scale of impending car contracts is larger than has been reported. The Harriman lines, Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Grand Trunk, Wabash, L. & N., St. Paul and Kanawha inquiries are for a total of 40,000, all of which are likely soon to be placed. Car shops have more than three months' work ahead and some of them are not getting steel as fast as they Canadian lines have yet to buy 100.000 tons of rails for this year and half of this or more will come to this country, 27's as neither Canadian nor English mills can give the deliveries wanted. The Monon has bought 6000 tons at Chicago. Plate mills in the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts are falling behind on deliveries and eastern mills, which suddenly began running well up to capacity this month, are now holding more nearly to the Pittsburgh basis. Some cutting on structural is still noticed in eastern markets. Large fabricating contracts continue to tempt concessions, the 10,000 tons for the new Brier Hill open-hearth plant at Youngstown bringing out a price figuring back close to 1c. at mill for plain material. The bookings of pipe and tube mills are in excess of shipments. The advance in oil is stimulating line work and a 40,000 ton contract of this sort is .80% b pending. .77% There There is less complaint from the wire trade, and reports from western markets are brighter both as to new sales and specifications. Reports are mixed as to the estabishment of the advances in sheets, but mill operations are above 90 per cent. An event in the roofing trade is the announcement of the leading producer that sales will be made hereafter by weight instead of by the square.

BREAK RECORDS NEW YORK-In volume of business one during the month of March, 1912, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad broke all its March records, according to the official figures just at hand. The gross operating revenues were $8,142,207, an increase of $1,188,383 over March, 1911. This result represents extraordinary concentration of effort and shows the high efficiency of the operating organiza-The demands of shippers were heavy and urgent and the management laid itself out to meet requirements. The company went into the winter with a reserve of 130 locomotives all in thorough repair, "white leaded" and ready for instantaneous call. It had a surplus of cars sufficient for any emergency likely to arise. The winter was unusually severe, however, and at one time the road had 35,000 freight cars out on other lines, which it could not get back on account of storm blockades. On March 1 15,000 of its cars were still beyond reach.

With that handicap to start with and with the public making extraordinary demands on the company's transportation facilities in order to provide against a possible tie-up on account of the threatened strike, the Baltimore & Ohio faced a trying situation.

FAR EAST IS TAKING FLOUR

NEW YORK-Pacific coast ports have made new records during the past nine months in shipping flour to the Orient. Disturbances in China left that country without the usual domestic supplies and exports from the west coast are relied upon largely to meet the deficiency. During last month four different steamers took cargoes from Seattle alone lamounting to nearly 300,000 barrels, representing 1,350,000 bushels of wheat. During March alone exports from Puget Sound, Portland and San Francisco were 472,949 barrels, compared with 237,250 barrels in March, 1911.

Since July 1 exports from these three Pacific coast points were 2,991,968 barrels, compared with 1,970,979 barrels in 1911 and 1,445,550 barrels in 1910 for the season of nine months. Average export available, but it is considered doubtful if any improvement will be shown in this tions of the Standard Oil subsidiary respect over a year ago, when the statement is made public. But it is confidently expected that the company will show about the same balance available for dividends this year as it did in 1911, when a litle over 11 per cent was earned on the preferred stock. Although the company is now paying dividends on the preferred stock, all surplus revenues over the amount required for such purposes are being devoted to improvements and double-tracking of the system.

In time the road will doubtless have a complete double-track line between Washington and Atlanta. At present the company is double-tracking portions of its line, where such additional facilities are most needed, and when business improves and bond market conditions bee more favorable the company will probably dispose of bonds and obtain new funds with which to still further earry out its double-tracking program. But the company will have to do

In view of the fact that the Southern triverses a territory which is rich in agricultural products and natural reources, it is fair to assume that future business of the company will develop very much larger proportions than anything reported to date. With a doubletrack system between Washington and Atlanta, the road will be in a position to handle a much larger business than is now possible, and at a much reduced proportionate cost.

The story of the Campanile is itself Switzerland and northern Italy as pfahl- sufficiently obscure. The bell towers of the old Italian towns were built separately from the cathedrals, whereas in northern Gothic the bells were generally placed in the great towers which rose from the cathedral roof. Of all these towers the most famous is that of Giotto at Flor ence, so picturesquely termed by Mr. Ruskin the Shepherd's tower. Building of Venice Is Marvel

The building of Venice is one of the nost marvelous in the world. The fact that the ponderous and beautiful buildings, such as the Doge's palace and the palaces on the Grand canal, the great hurches, such as San Giovanni e Paulo, the Frari and San Saluti and innumer able others, should have literally sprung out of the water on millions of wooden piles, while the Visconti and the Medici and the Scalieri rose and fell, and even the popes gave way to the new Italian kingdom, speaks of the thoroughness of the Venetian builder.

LONDON-A new club has founded in London known as the Nobodies Club, the idea of which originated at the Universal Races Congress, which was held in London in July last.

The club is for both sexes and all aces and more especially for those men and women of education and refinement leading lonely lives in London. What they wanted, said Professor Bickerton, was to get the many hundred of respectable young foreigners, both Europeans and Asiatics, to meet and fraternize.

This should do much for racial amity find such a club a great boon.

MILAN, Italy-The spirit in which a arge portion of the Italian people are viewing the Tripolitan conflict is clearly shown, though in an indirect manner, in the comment made by the Secolo on the home rule bill for Ireland.

The Secolo sprints this article and in an editorial comment prophesies the triumph of home rule in Ireland and the establishment of a Parliament in

The paper goes on to say that doubtess "Mr. Redmond's appeal to justice and international solidarity may well appear ironical at a moment when Italy is inflamed with lust of conquest, violence and war, but it will, we hope, find a sympathetic echo in all the free spirits of our country who have preserved intact their faith in the only true and great conquest of civilization-the victory of the right against the false."

Worth of Latin-American News

ANYTHING that fosters fuller and more accurate knowledge of Latin-American contemporary history among residents of the United States is a boon to both regions of America. The Monitor today begins a special semiweekly department in which it will carry on this much-needed service of mediation and interpretation. The intent is that no phase of the political, industrial, commercial and racial evolution of the southern republics shall be overlooked, and that thereby the pledged service of the paper as a factor in creating an international point of view among its readers in many climes will be bettered.

There are special reasons why, we believe, such specializing in the realm of Central and South American news by a daily paper in the United States is timely and serviceable. In so far as the facts chronicled inform residents of the United States as to actual conditions of culture, trade and political evolution in lands to the south of them, the news will tend to dispel an historic attitude of combined ignorance and condescension for which there is and has been no excuse. Europe's long lead over the United States in the Latin republics as a model to be followed is in part due to factors, racial and linguistic, which were inherent in the web and woof of history. Nothing that the United States could have done or can do will obscure that fact. But there is much that American statesmen, captains of industry, capitalists, educators, artists, authors and tourists might have done during the generations that have intervened since Spain's yoke was east off which would have established closer relations in the realm of ideas and ideals between nations identical in their theory of government. Had there been more of this higher kind of commerce, there would also have been more of the kind that takes the form of imports and exports.

Fortunately, of late years there have been signs of expanding horizon on the part of statesmen at Washington, of educators in some of the leading universities and of artists who are finding markets where native and European craftsmen hitherto have had a monopoly. The Pan-American Union at Washington has had a steady, persuasive mediating influence. The share of Latin-Americans in the two Hague conferences has had its impressive effect on jurists. The swelling commerce of nations like Argentina and Brazil dazzles and allures those who would share in it. With the Panama canal in use, a new epoch for closer intercourse between the Americas will open. Hence we feel that our readers, whether of the old world or the new, will welcome, week by week, a reliable chronicle of Latin America's social evolution and commercial and industrial expansion.

IT SHOULD be more widely and better understood that investigations, as a rule, never are quite satisfactory to everybody. This is one reason why they should not be invited unless the desire is to learn all that is to be said on all sides.

A DECREASE in the cotton crop of India of more than 18 per cent is anticipated, but the spread of this rumor in the American South should not be permitted to interfere with the diversification of crops.

So MANY announcements are being made to that general effect at present that hobody need be surprised to learn that the presidential campaign is now about to begin.

Boston's Markets

THE center of the chief market trade of Boston today is substantially where it was in the seventeenth century. State street used to be called Market street. It remains so, but in a different sense. Nevertheless, the original town market place for meats, green groceries and fish is still nigh the crooked streets and picturesque squares through which buyers must thread their ways to Faneuil hall and the Quincy market But population not only has vastly increased since the General Court in 1633 ordered that market should be kept in Boston every Thursday, but relative placement of population to the historic market region also has changed. So that there are large and populous regions of the city that are dependent practically upon venders of the vicinage for their supplies. Public markets are not known there. In fact, the city as a whole is singularly lacking in a communal spirit corresponding to that which made, "the weekly market one of the most ancient and vital of municipal institutions," and so organized and regulated as to conserve the interests of consumers.

Hi a curious person will read the historical review of Boston's market problem by Dr. E. M. Hartwell, published as an appendix to the Massachusetts commission's report on the cost of living, he will find that the out-of-town producer and the in-town middleman have been able during successive generations to prevent such community action as in other cities and towns has conserved the interests of purchasers. Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, New Orleans and Philadelphia are far better equipped with facilities for sale of table supplies under wholesome conditions that the community defines. Responsibility, in Dr. Hartwell's opinion, is popular, not personal. To quote his words: "The ordinary run of people in Boston and the towns in its vicinity seem always to have been more or less opposed to an orderly and strictly regulated victual market." They have steadfastly resisted efforts to decentralize the business and curb forestalling and regrating when they have been flagrant.

Such facts give peculiar interest to the scheme of the Women's Municipal League to establish an uptown market just off Copley square, to which residents of the Back Bay and the South End may go with ease and with assurance that contemporary standards of pure food and sanitary care are observed. An investment of $250,000 is proposed, and of adequate patronage there can be no doubt if the market is rightly managed and consumers' interests conserved.

UNUSUAL interest should attach to the sessions of the international navigation congress which begin in Philadelphia on May 23. Mayor Blankenburg of that city, by the way, will welcome the delegates in three languages, German, English and French.

One of the well-known aviators predicts that within five years aeroplanes will be as numerous as automobiles. Perhaps. It will not do to be skeptical, but it does not look that way now.

Official estimates give a possible vote of 15,000,000 electors in the coming American presidential election, which is more than the entire present population of Mexico and more than the United States had of adults and children in the year 1830. Owing to the complexity and gravity of the issues before the country and the intensity of interest in them, it is probable that approximately this number of votes will be cast. In that case democracy as a form of government will have had its most impressive balloting, quantitatively considered. Nor will the qualitative aspects of the matter fail to impress reflective men. Compared with all previous and similar tests of popular will, a very much larger proportion of votes will be cast by women. More than previously, electors will have shared in the process of nomination of candidates, and hence will have deliberated much longer over the personal equations involved. A smaller per cent than at any time within half a century will be influenced in any degree by the issues that caused the civil war and by its sequelae. So far as sectional lines are drawn today, they divide West and East, not North and South. The disputable questions are not those of the status of races, but of the welfare of the race: not those of the checks and balances of a constitution, but of the obstacles to fair play and equality of opportunity in industry, commerce and social evolution. Disintegration of historic party groups has attained a state of deliquescence surpassing that visible when voters went to the polls in 1908. New precedents as to the activity in practical politics of acting and retired presidents of the nation are now being created. Tactics of strategy by partizan managers of the national campaign are being revised in the light of new conditions. Prophecies of expert politicians and the press are not proving to be correct when results of primaries are weighed. Many are the omens of a summer full of dramatic contests for the favor of electors in November and a full vote when the people's answer is recorded.

To be the free choice of 15,000,000 people as their spokesman and their administrative servant is not a small honor, as honors go in this world. When China settles down to smooth working of republicanism and ventures on increasing use of franchise power by her masses she may some day surpass the spectacle that the United States now presents. Until that day comes America will have primacy.

Developing Tennessee's Water Power IN POTENTIAL water power Tennessee is one of the most favored states of the Union. In the upper eastern section there are the Clinch. Powell's and Holston rivers; farther down are the French, Broad, Little Tennessee and Hrawassee. The Tennessee, formed by the union of the two forks of the Holston, trips into Alabama and back again, finding its way finally into the Ohio. Then there are the Cumberland, Duck, Elk and Caney Fork that drain northern middle Tennessee, and out of west Tennessee flow the Obion, Forked Deer, Big Hatchie and Wolf. The three principal rivers are the Mississippi, the Cumberland and the Tennessee, but several of the other streams are of far greater than average size, and many of them have falls that are inviting to the electric power engineer. The eastern part of Tennessee is mountainous and billy and the middle section undulating; the western section sloping toward the Mississippi is low.

Recently the state geological survey has issued a pamphlet designed to shed light upon the water resources of Tennessee and to enlighten its people as to the possibilities of power development. These appear to be very great. The watercourses are so numerous and the fall in most cases so great that power development might be carried on within its borders at a comparatively small expenditure of capital. There is vastly more power lying idle in a small section of the state now than the utilities and industries of the people call for, but it is a question whether the development of cheap power wouldnot very speedily increase consumption by encouraging the establishment of manufactories.

Tennessee, of course, is only one of several states in the same general section of the country that are seriously contemplating plans for putting to better use the waters that are poured in upon them so bountifully. Some of them, Tennessee included, are beginning to see the possibility of immense savings in fuel by the harnessing of the streams; and, looking farther still, it is not impossible to see how the harnessing process, should it come into widespread practise in this region, would contribute largely toward the solution of the freshet and flood problem.

THE opinion in the St. Louis terminal case, handed down by Justice Lurton of the United States supreme court on Monday, is one of the most interesting and important recorded under the operation of the Sherman antitrust law. In one respect, at least, it is as wide a departure from the preconceived notions of supporters of the principle of that law as was the enunciation of the famous rule of reason. Justice Lurton holds the

St. Louis Terminal Decision

Terminal Association to be an admitted monopoly. There is as little doubt in his mind with regard to this as there ever has been in the minds of the St. Louis people who have been fighting it as such for years. It is virtually in possession of all means of ingress and egress at St. Louis. It controls the two great bridges across the Mississippi, the Wiggins Ferry Company, the waterfront on the Illinois as well as the Missouri sides and all the trackage used by the fifteen railroads in the combination. There probably never was a tighter monopoly anywhere. Yet it seems to be the opinion of Justice Lurton, who speaks for the United States supreme court, that this monopoly should be regulated rather than dissolved.

The opinion decrees that the Terminal Association shall reorganize, that in doing so it shall admit into its membership every railroad that is required to use its facilities, and that all those transportation companies now excluded shalf be granted equal terms with those on the inside. It is further decreed that certain practises of the Terminal Association, relating to burdensome requirements in freight transference and discrimination in the matter of short hauls from the coal regions of Illinois, shall be discontinued. It upholds the legality of the monopoly, but discountenances its methods and insists upon their reformation. The effect of the ruling will, perhaps, be to let in the "outsiders," to broaden the policy of the monopoly, but to give the monopoly itself a longer lease upon the terminal facilities of the metropolis of the Southwest.

Whether the people of St. Louis have scored a triumph here remains to be seen. In so far as the ruling provides a better status for transportation companies heretofore practically excluded from St. Louis business, some protests that have been very loud will be silenced. The Terminal Association will have to be kind hereafter toward some interests that have long been pleading with it in vain. But the question that remains open is. How is this going to benefit the St. Louis shipper, the St. Louis public? Will not these be as much under the domination of a monopoly as ever? Possibly the monopoly, profiting by the present ruling and the general tendency of public thought, may be more considerate, and yet thinking people must seriously question the wisdom of permitting the matter to rest here. If the terminals of St. Louis are to be operated as a monopoly -which may be the best way of operating them-it would seem to the disinterested onlooker that the people of St. Louis and not a group of private interests should control the monopoly.

Arizona, youngest of the states, is the latest to approve the proposed income tax amendment to the constitution, and, if it be assumed that the Governor's veto of the legislative resolution in Arkansas will not be tipheld by the courts, only four more votes are necessary to the incorporation of the sixteenth amendment in the organic law. So long a time elapses between the recording of votes on this proposal that it may be well to refresh the reader's memory with regard to it. Here is the joint resolution:

Chance for Income Tax Amendment Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled (two thirds of each house concurring therein), that the following article is proposed as an amendment to the constitution of the United States, which when ratified by the legislatures of three fourths of the several states shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a part of the constitution:

"Article XVI. The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment, among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration?"

The states that have thus far voted in favor of this amendment are: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, Montana, New York, Nevada, North Carolina, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Washington, Wisconsin, 32. The states recorded as voting against it are: Connecticut, Louisiana, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, West Virginia, 7. These states have not as yet taken action on the proposal: Delaware, Florida, Minnesota, New Mexico, Pennsylvania, Utah, Vermont, Virginia and Wyoming, 9. The Massachusetts House has approved of it, but the Senate has twice rejected it. The lower house of the Virginia Legislature has disapproved it. It has passed only one house in Florida and Minnesota.

Although only four more votes are necessary, it will take some time to get these. There is now, however, greater probability than ever that it will receive the requisite number of votes, and, from all appearances these will come with the assembling of the biennial legislatures next year. The joint resolution has now been before the states for very nearly three years, it having passed the Senate on July 5, 1909. On the whole, it has rather gained than lost in popular favor, and it has so nearly obtained the necessary number of ratifications that it is doubtful now if a political revulsion next November would turn the tide against it.

LATEST contemporary literature from China emphasizes the significance of the first trial by jury begun in Shanghai, March 23, and carried through with dignity, celerity and efficiency by a newly constituted native court of three judges, two of them members of the English bar of that city and the other trained in Japan's modern judicial procedure. In the reforming process that preceded the revolution which has resulted in a republic. chief emphasis naturally was laid upon administrative policies in Peking and in establishment of provincial and national legislative bodies; and in each case notable changes had been wrought even before the sword was drawn. But no marked innovations in judicial procedure had been attempted. Now they are coming. The provisional constitution has for its ninth article the provision, "people have the right of trial at legal courts." Chapter six has to do with courts of justice, the judges of which are to be appointed by the provisional President and the minister of justice, the court organization and the . qualifications of the judges, however, being determined by the Assembly. Except in cases involving peace and order, all trials are to be open to the public. Judges are not to be interfered with by "any higher officials either during a trial or in delivering judgment, as judges are independent." A judge's salary cannot be reduced nor his functions delegated to another. Punishment, dismissal or retirement must be according to a specially defined law determined by the people's representatives.

The task of providing adequately trained counsel and judges for using western forms, or even modern Japanese forms of judicial procedure, is a huge one; and in the experiment flagrant blunders may be made. The Confucian ethic, however, when obeyed, has made for a widely diffused sense of justice that will make it easier to graft the new on to the old than might have been the case.

Chinese accounts also are extremely interesting just now because of the light they shed on the exceptionally friendly attitude toward Christianity which the makers of New China are showing. This attitude in turn is throwing tasks of largest significance upon representatives of the Christian faith in the empire. Bishop Bashford is now en route to Washington as special envoy from the republic with a message to President Taft and to the people of the United States, which he-landing at Honolulu-rates as of unusual, meaning for China and that outer world in which the ancient people henceforth will live a puissant factor. Not the least portentous of contemporary Chinese activities is the swift and positive assertion by the republic of authority over Thibet, the use of force against the natives and the serving of notice on all concerned that Peking has a long arm.

Workingmen would seem to be arriving in San Francisco at present faster than they can be absorbed either by the regular demand or by the exposition company. It would be well if San Francisco kept the workers of the country closely informed as to the conditions prevailing there industrially.
